

COOKIES POLICY

What is a cookie?

A "cookie" is a small amount of text that is stored in your browser (such as Google's Chrome or Apple's Safari) when you browse most websites.

What information does a cookie store?

Cookies do not usually store sensitive information about you, such as credit card or bank details, photographs or personal information, etc. The data they store are of a technical nature, statistics, personal preferences, personalisation of content, etc.

The web server does not associate you as a person but your web browser. In fact, if you usually browse with the Chrome browser and try browsing the same website with the Firefox browser, you will see that the website does not realise that you are the same person because it is actually associating the information with the browser, not the person.

What types of cookies are there?

- Technical cookies: These are the most elementary and allow, among other things, to know when a human or an automated application is browsing, when an anonymous user and a registered user are browsing, basic tasks for the operation of any dynamic website.
- Analysis cookies: These collect information on the type of browsing you are doing, the sections you use most, products consulted, time of use, language, etc.
- Advertising cookies: These show advertising based on your browsing habits, your country of origin, language, etc.

What are first-party and third-party cookies?

First-party cookies are those generated by the website you are visiting and third-party cookies are those generated by external services or providers such as Mailchimp, Mailrelay, Facebook, Twitter, Google adsense, etc.

Cookies accepted by the regulation and excepted cookies

According to the EU directive, the cookies that require the user's informed consent are analytical cookies and advertising and affiliation cookies, with the exception of technical cookies and those necessary for the operation of the website or the provision of services expressly requested by the user.

What cookies does this website use?

This website uses own and third party cookies. The following cookies are used on this website and are detailed below:

Own cookies:

Login: Login cookies allow you to log in and log out of your roncolibri.com account.

Personalization: Cookies help me remember which people or websites you have interacted with, so I can show you related content.

Preferences: Cookies allow me to remember your settings and preferences, such as your preferred language and privacy settings.

Security: I use cookies to avoid security risks. Mainly to detect when someone is trying to hack into your roncolibri.com account.

Third party cookies
